MAYOR WEAVER DISMISSES TWO MORE CITY OFFICIALS

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—At the request of Mayor Weaver, Alexander Colville, Jr., assistant director of public safety, and William H. Baker, assistant director of public works, handed in their resignations today and were immediately succeeded by Thomas W. South, a former police magistrate, to fill the position vacated by Mr. Colville, and Thomas L. Hicks, a former postmaster of this city, to take the place made vacant in the department of public works. The salaries of the assistant directors are $4,500 a year.

Rumors of [illegible] changes are still in circulation. Mayor Weaver has announced that from now until the end of his term he is going to run his administration on a business basis. Strict economy is to be practiced in all departments under his jurisdiction and all employes not necessary in the proper conduct of the city's affairs will have to retire.

The Citizens' committee of nine appointed to protest against the gas lease held a long session today and at its conclusion it was announced that Wayne MacVeagh, former United States attorney general, had been retained as associate counsel with Henry Bigler. The committee decided to assist Mayor Weaver in his fight against the Republican organization.

RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR AND PRESIDENT HOLD CONFERENCE

Roosevelt Expresses Wish That Russia Will Forthwith Conclude Peace With Japan---Count Cassini Opposed to Such a Course.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The president today struck a blow for peace in the far east. In conference at the White house this afternoon with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the president expressed the hope that Russia would forthwith conclude peace with Japan. [illegible] of the war, he believes, [illegible] for the Russian [illegible] to recognize Japan's demands and under more [illegible] the drafting of a treaty of peace [illegible] the president spoke as a friend of Russia [illegible] of Japan and on behalf not of the Washington government [illegible] his words [illegible] Nicholas [illegible] cannot be estimated.

Declined Statement.

Soon after reaching the embassy Count Cassini began the preparation of a dispatch to his government. Neither at the White house nor at the Russian embassy could a formal statement regarding the conference be obtained. Throughout the diplomatic corps there is a strong hope that today's conference marked the first step toward peace, but the general opinion is that weeks may elapse before even parliamentary negotiations can be begun. Diplomats express the hope that Emperor Nicholas will receive the president's words as the counsel of that government which has for years been Russia's traditional friend and will weigh them accordingly.

Unaccompanied, Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, called by appointment at the White house at half past [illegible] o'clock. He was ushered at once to the blue room where he was joined immediately by the president and a conference followed that lasted until [illegible] o'clock.

Appreciating the natural feelings of the ambassador on such an occasion the president began the conversation by [illegible] personal expression of sympathy [illegible] Count Cassini, alluding to the [illegible] strain under which he has been for the past few days and deploring the [illegible] loss of life and consequent sorrow caused by the recent battle in the sea of Japan.

President's Arguments.

Briefly and in a paraphrased form, these were the arguments used by the president in support of his conviction that as between a continuation of the war and immediate peace the latter would be greatly to Russia's advantage.

Having received no word from his government [illegible] the annihilation of Rojestvensky's fleet [illegible] Count Cassini [illegible] the [illegible] of his own personal opinions of the situation. The ambassador was deeply touched by the [illegible] cordiality of the reception and [illegible] in which the president spoke. He could not see, however, that [illegible] the present situation, unfortunate as it undoubtedly was for his government, [illegible] Russia's suing for peace.

As to territory he [illegible] course, and that Russia had been [illegible] Port Arthur [illegible] Russia had nothing more to lose. [illegible] the ambassador's firm opinion that [illegible] the psychological moment [illegible] to discuss peace with Japan. Whatever might be the ultimate decision of his government, he took the ground that Russia could lose nothing either by waiting or by continuing the [illegible] more [illegible] Russia [illegible] to [illegible].

Altogether Impossible.

The ambassador [illegible] that [illegible] the slightest [illegible] information from any source as to Japan's probable terms, said that these demands as stated unofficially were "altogether impossible." If Japan's terms should prove anything [illegible] as they have been reported, it was the ambassador's opinion that Russia could not [illegible] war indefinitely and [illegible] victory [illegible] the [illegible] president's [illegible] willingness to render Russia any service possible in initiating peace negotiations with Japan, he will have another talk with the president.

Regarding his visit to the White house all that Count Cassini would say was:

"I had a most cordial conversation with the president during which the whole situation in the far east was discussed informally and in a general manner. No peace overtures were received from Japan, nor were any made. Our talk was confidential of course, and of a very general character."

When Count Cassini leaves Washington for St. Petersburg early in July he will be the bearer of a personal message from the president to the emperor.

GRANDE RIVER FLOOD WORSE

TOWN UNDER SEVEN FEET OF WATER AND THE SANTA FE TRACKS WASHED OUT. NO LIVES LOST.

EL PASO, Tex., June 2.—The Rio Grande flood situation grows worse [illegible]. Today the water is several feet higher north of here and several hundred yards of the Santa Fe railroad track between El Paso and Albuquerque have been washed out. All traffic from here is being diverted over the Southern Pacific to Deming.

The town of La Mesa, on the opposite bank of the Rio Grande river, is under seven feet of water, but no loss of life there is reported. The rise of the river was gradual and the people of the town had an opportunity to escape the flood. Anthony, another small town, was completely [illegible], but here also the people were warned of the danger and vacated their homes in time. The river threatens to change its course five miles below El Paso and it is possible that further great damage will result.

W. C. COUGHLIN RESIGNS POSITION

DENVER, Colo., June 2.—General Superintendent W. C. Coughlin of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad has resigned to become general manager of the Kansas City railway of which [illegible] Tascott [illegible] Denver and Rio Grande, has become president.

The [illegible] vacated by Mr. Coughlin probably will be abolished and the duties be performed by General Manager A. C. Ridgway.

Mr. Coughlin was superintendent of the Kansas City Southern before coming to the Denver and Rio Grande road several years ago.

LIGHTNING CAUSES BREWERY TO BURN

DENVER, June 2.—During a electric storm this afternoon lightning [illegible] plant of the [illegible] Brewing company [illegible] the building and contents [illegible] The total loss is expected to [illegible], fully covered by insurance. Two employes of the brewery were rendered unconscious by the shock. While the firemen were fighting the flames a tank of ammonia [illegible] the brewery exploded and forced the firemen to retreat to avoid the suffocating fumes.

DIAZ APPOINTS NEW AMBASSADOR

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—President Diaz today appointed Joaquin D. Casasus to be ambassador of Mexico to the United States. Mr. Casasus is an eminent economist as well as a man of letters. He will take up his new duties in August.

STEAMER WRECKED

NEW ORLEANS, June 2.—The steamer H. M. Carter struck the bridge of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company at Alexandria, La., about 11 o'clock tonight and was wrecked. The boat was [illegible] a complete loss. It is reported that several lives were lost but this cannot be confirmed. The telephone operator at Alexandria says all the passengers and crew escaped [illegible] no lives were lost. A [illegible] operator [illegible] from the wreck claims that [illegible] persons were drowned.

Against Rear Admiral Nebogatoff for Surrendering His Warships to Enemy.

RAPHAEL INCIDENT

IN RUSSO-TURKISH WAR CITED AS AN EXAMPLE OF PUNISHMENT THAT SHOULD BE METED OUT TO HIM.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—[illegible] feeling in the community against Rear Admiral Nebogatoff [illegible] majority of the [illegible] being deaf to the appeals of the few who insist that [illegible] the surrender [illegible] fully [illegible] for a surrendering but [illegible] a precedent set in the case of the Russian warship Raphael which in 1828, during the Russo-Turkish war, struck its colors to three Turkish ships which surrounded it.

Nicholas I. [illegible] punishment to the officers and crew of the Raphael, ordering that all of them [illegible] and [illegible] that if the ship should be recaptured its famous name should be blotted out by the total destruction of the vessel.

The Raphael, strange to say, was recaptured 34 years later at Sinope during the Crimean war. A son of the captain surrendered here, taking part in the battle, and to this son fell the task of executing the dead emperor's orders to destroy her. Many naval authorities declare that the emperor should reserve the same fate for Admiral Nebogatoff.

While hope for the safety of the protected cruisers Oleg and Aurora has been abandoned, some of the naval authorities believe it possible that those commanders, [illegible] had been practically destroyed and that Vladivostok, as a harbor of refuge, would only prove a death trap to the Thence they could escape across the Pacific and either be interned in the United States or return by way of Cape Horn. One reason why the Aurora [illegible] to Petropavlovsk is that her commander married a Kamchatkan woman and is thoroughly familiar with the waters of that coast.

FACULTY DECIDES AGAINST GOODALE

FORT COLLINS, Colo., June 2.—After deliberating over the matter for several days, the faculty of the Colorado Agricultural college has reached a decision in the fake fire case that was [illegible] several weeks ago by R. C. Grayden, who was registered as an Aggie student. The decision of the faculty is that R. [illegible] Goodale, son of J. [illegible] Goodale, of [illegible], is suspended and that [illegible] is exonerated from any wrong doing. Young Goodale was accused of being mixed up with Grayden in the case. For this he and his father both denied. Judge Goodale appeared before the faculty for his son.

SECRETARY HAY IS IN LONDON

LONDON, June 2.—Secretary Hay arrived from Paris this evening looking better than when he left New York, but [illegible] from [illegible]. He said he had been benefited by the Bad Nauheim cure but is continuing under the strict orders of his physicians who insist on absolute rest. Acting on this advice Mr. Hay will not participate in any social or official function during his stay in London. The secretary will sail for New York June 7. Should he benefit by the sea voyage Mr. Hay will go direct to Washington and see President Roosevelt. Otherwise he will go direct to his country place at Lake Sunapee, N. H. In any case the secretary will go to his country residence after seeing the president.

CONGRESSMAN MARSH DIED YESTERDAY

WARSAW, Ills., June 2.—Congressman Benjamin F. Marsh, of the fourteenth Illinois district, died at his home here today. He had served eight terms in congress and had been elected to a ninth term.

RICHARDSON TAKES FURTHER TESTIMONY

DODGE CITY, Kas., June 2.—The attorneys in the Kansas-Colorado irrigation case over the right to the waters of the Arkansas river began taking testimony here today before Commissioner Granville A. Richardson. The Kansas attorneys sought to prove the absence of the underflow in the Arkansas river as a result of the irrigation ditches in Colorado. This is the Kansas side of the case and hearings will be held in various towns along the Arkansas valley for the coming two weeks.

VICE PRESIDENT LEAVES PORTLAND

PARTICIPATED IN CEREMONIES ATTENDING DEDICATION OF WASHINGTON STATE BUILDING.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 2.—Vice President Fairbanks and party left tonight for Chicago where they will arrive Tuesday morning. From Chicago the vice president will go to Flint, Mich., where he will participate in the laying of the corner stone of the new federal building at that place. It is expected that on June 10 Mr. Fairbanks will deliver the address at the commencement exercises of the Iowa State university.

The feature of the Lewis and Clark exposition today was the dedication of the [illegible] building of the state of Washington [illegible] Vice President Fairbanks [illegible] Washington [illegible] the ceremonies [illegible] United States Senator Piles of Washington [illegible] pleased the assemblage.

When Vice President Fairbanks was introduced the audience arose and he was given an ovation. The vice president's unstinted praise of the exposition pleased his auditors and he was repeatedly cheered.

SULTAN DECLINES FRENCH PROPOSITION FOR REFORMS

PARIS, June 2.—Although official confirmation is withheld, it is generally accepted here that the report from Tangier to the effect that the sultan of Morocco has declined the French propositions for the reform of Morocco unless approved by an international conference, was correct. This is widely commented on as amounting to a check if not a failure of the French mission sent to Fez as well as a check to the entire French policy in Morocco.

Only the absorbing attention given to King Alfonso's presence [illegible] of the [illegible] against Germany, as [illegible] would be considered due to the influence of Count Tattenbach-Ashold, head of the German mission to Fez, with the Sultan. The French statesmen continue to rely on Great Britain, Italy and Spain refusing to join the proposed conference, which, with the refusal of France and Russia and possibly the indifference of the United States, would leave the conference without membership except Germany.

However it is recognized that even without an international conference the sultan's refusal to agree to the reforms proposed by France continues the old status quo which France sought to terminate.

EQUITABLE LIFE FACTIONS BOTH CLAIMING VICTORY

Meeting of Directors Yesterday After Which It Was Announced That All Went Hyde's Way---Frick Report Was Not Considered.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Disputed claims of victory by the conflicting factions in the Equitable Life Assurance society, and an apparent readjustment of interest marked the meetings of the directors of the society held today for the purpose of passing on the report of the committee of seven of which H. C. Frick is the chairman.

The following statement was given out:

"The members of the board, after full discussion and after replies on their own behalf to the committee by President Alexander, Vice President Hyde and Vice President Tarbell, on motion of Mr. Schiff, adopted the following resolutions:

"That a chairman of the board be created, with plenary powers over all departments and affairs of the society.

"That a nominating committee consisting of D. O. Mills, John A. Stewart, A. J. Cassatt, T. Jefferson Coolidge, August Belmont, J. B. Forgan and Robert T. Lincoln be requested to report at a meeting of the board to be called on Wednesday next, a candidate for chairman.

"That at that meeting of the board the executive committee be reorganized and that appropriate amendments to the by-laws should be prepared for submission to that meeting for the purpose of carrying out those resolutions.

Ask Hyde to Get Out.

"That James H. Hyde be requested within three months to divest himself of the control of the stocks of the society on such terms and conditions as shall be satisfactory."

Of the full board of 50 directors, 37 were present.

The meeting today was called for 11 o'clock, prior to which hour there were protracted conferences in the offices of Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hyde and in the office occupied by the Frick committee.

It was declared by interests friendly to Mr. Hyde that strong efforts would be made at the meeting to defeat the report of the Frick committee and withhold it from publication and that President Alexander and his friends had joined forces with Mr. Hyde in supporting this course.

The directors remained in session for several hours, the time being taken up with statements by President Alexander and Vice President Hyde, both of whom opposed the adoption of the Frick committee report.

Frick's Report.

After the adjournment late in the afternoon it was learned that the question of the adoption of the Frick report had not come before the board. Mr. Frick, perceiving that he would unquestionably be out-voted on a resolution to adopt the report, made no comment and after tendering his resignation left the room. It is understood that Mr. Bliss and Mr. Harriman, both of whom tendered their resignations, followed him immediately. The Frick report, it has been ascertained, recommended the removal of President Alexander, Vice President Hyde and Second Vice President Tarbell.

The first speaker at the forenoon session was President Alexander who, in the course of an address, defended the management of the Equitable.

Gage T. Tarbell, the second vice president, also addressed the meeting, devoting his remarks to the management of the domestic agencies.

Mr. Hyde in his address insisted that there was not a single act throughout his entire career with the society which was the subject of so much unjust criticism.

Among other falsehoods which Mr. Hyde said had been circulated about him was one to the effect that he had given the Cambon dinner with the [illegible] of getting the order of the Legion of Honor from the French government. This decoration had, in fact, been conferred upon him two years before.

Lent Money.

As to his participation in syndicates Mr. Hyde said he had been in many syndicates always with Mr. Alexander, in which the Equitable had no concern whatever, and in many of them had [illegible] money. He justified his participation in such operations.

It is understood that a motion was then made to discharge the committee and that it was carried.

Mr. Hyde's friends on the board then stated that they [illegible] that the welfare of the society required [illegible] a man of dominating influence and national reputation at its head to [illegible] public confidence.

A resolution providing for the appointment of a chairman of the board was accordingly offered and was voted for by all present.

The question as to whether Mr. Hyde would be willing to trustee his [illegible] was then raised and the [illegible] requesting that he di[illegible] himself of control by such a trusteeship was adopted. Mr. Hyde, however, made no pledge on that subject.

In the course of the heated [illegible] many insinuations were thrown out as to the real purpose of the report [illegible] the alleged attempt to capture control of the society.

In this connection it was pointed out that the position of the rival factions is interesting in its bearing on what is called a great pending railroad [illegible]. The supposed efforts of the Pennsylvania railroad to keep the Gould sys-

INDICTMENTS CONNECTED WITH STRIKE VOTED BY GRAND JURY

CHICAGO, June 2.—Four indictments connected with the teamsters' strike have been voted by the grand jury and will be returned to Judge [illegible] court tomorrow. The names of the men indicted could not be ascertained this afternoon.

It was reported that bills would not be voted in connection with the charge made by President Shea of the Teamsters' union that he was offered $1,000 to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck & Co. It was found that the statutes of limitation barred any indictments, and the evidence given was largely of hearsay character.

It was reported that some indictments would be based on the charge of conspiracy to injure the business of a number of large concerns, and it was also said that some indictments would be found for perjury.

Robert J. Thorne, general manager for Montgomery Ward & Co., was before the grand jury this afternoon and, while denying absolutely any knowledge of the $1,000 said to have been offered to Shea and other labor leaders, declared that he did not even know Shea at the time the alleged offer of $1,000 was made. He said he first met Shea in April 1904.

CARDINAL CAUSES OF RUSSIA'S DEFEAT ANALYZED BY EXPERT

TOKIO, June 2—Noon.—The cardinal causes of Rojestvensky's defeat have been the subject of general discussion here. One Japanese expert gives the following analysis:

"First, an imperfect reconnoissance and incomplete, faulty and misleading intelligence.

"Second, an imperfect battle formation, which indicated that Rojestvensky did not expect to meet Togo off the Tsushima.

"Third, the weather, the direction of the wind and the sunlight were unfavorable to the Russians, Togo having the sun behind him and firing with the wind, while the Russians had the sunlight in their eyes and fired against the wind.

"Fourth, the Russians wasted their ammunition and eventually ran short. It is believed that the surrender of Nebogatoff was necessary because his ammunition had been expended.

"Fifth, the marked inferiority of Russian gunnery."

Some experts criticise Rojestvensky for essaying the Tsushima channel, others uphold him, saying that his only chance lay in going through that channel. The impression prevails that Rojestvensky was totally unaware of the presence of Togo's entire fleet off Tsushima.

Many believe that it was necessary for Togo to take a station at a pivotal point from which it would be possible to intercept the Russians entering either Tsushima, Tsugaru or Soya channels. [illegible] west coast near the western entrance of Tsugaru channel. Togo's real whereabouts were known to many Japanese but the secret was successfully guarded, another example of the willingness and ability of the Japanese to preserve military secrets.

Leaving aside the questions of preparedness and superior conditions the superiority of the personnel fresh from 15 months successful campaigning under all possible conditions, must be taken into consideration. Many ascribe the victory entirely to the superior marksmanship of the Japanese. Togo, realizing that it would probably be necessary to fight in the open sea, gave his crews long training in firing during rough weather with a heavy wind blowing and the ships rolling. When the hostile fleets met the superiority of the Japanese immediately became evident.

The sinking of battleships and armored cruisers by shell fire testifies to the deadly accuracy of the Japanese guns and destroys the theory that it is impossible to sink such ships by shell fire.

The attitude of Japanese naval men towards victory is curious. Togo's message to the emperor saying that the victory was the result of the [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] officers only say that [illegible] the result obtained was [illegible] by [illegible] human achievement alone.

ROBERTSON SUES FOR DAMAGES

FORMER TELLER COUNTY SHERIFF WANTS TO GET EVEN WITH MEN WHO FORCED HIM TO RESIGN.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 2.—Henry Robertson, formerly sheriff of Teller county, who resigned on June 6 last, has brought suit in the district court against Alex McDonald, Z. F. Funk, John Dalzell, W. E. Driscoll, Harry G. Moore, W. Rowbridge, C. C. Hamlin, Ed Bell, James Murphy and numerous other prominent citizens of the district to recover damages in the sum of $24,365.07 for his forced removal from office. Robertson has also brought suit against the board of county commissioners for damages in the sum of $8,518.47. He claims that it was unnecessary for the board of commissioners to accede to the popular clamor for his summary removal from office.

In the former case Robertson alleges that there was a conspiracy among the defendants to remove him from office, and he declares that he was threatened to be killed and that a rope containing a noose was flipped in his face. One of the items of expense in the damage suit is for $2,274.50, which Robertson claims he would have earned by feeding the prisoners in the county jail had he been permitted to remain in office. Richardson and Hawkins of Denver, and E. J. Hangs of this city, are plaintiff's attorneys.

"JACK" TANNER, NEW MANAGER OF MILLIONAIRES, IS HERE

Former Baseball Star of Chicago University Expected to Join the Local Team at Once—Some Other Players Can Be Secured If Needed.

"Who won today's game?"

John Tanner, for the last seven years sporting editor of the Chicago Inter-Ocean and for the last two weeks manager of the Millionaires, arrived at the Alamo last night shortly after 11 o'clock. He was approached by a Gazette reporter, who was greeted by the above remark.

Tanner says that the only players whom he expects to join the Millionaires at present are Radcliff and Cook. The latter is a former baseball and football star of the University of Illinois and is at present general athletic instructor at the Armour institution in Chicago. Cook's contract with the latter school does not expire until June 15 but Tanner says he has some strings out which may secure him right away and that he would not be surprised if Cook reports Monday or Tuesday. He also has a pitcher and an outfielder where he can put his hands on them if he needs them but says he isn't going to bring a brand new team to town until he has a chance to size up the situation.

"I don't intend to jump from the frying pan into the fire," he remarked.

Tanner thinks that Bader, the new man who is playing short for the locals, will make good and says that with Radcliff and Cook he will be able to pick a fast infield out of the bunch. Cook plays either in or outfield.

The pitching staff of the Millionaires looks as good as any in the league to Tanner and he will make no change in it at present. He says that he had several chances to get twirlers during his recent trip but that he didn't run across any that looked better than Sturgis, Minor, Lindsey, [illegible] Swormstedt.

"They'll be all right as soon as they get down to work," he said, "but [illegible] about [illegible] I know where I can get some more. [illegible] I think [illegible] plenty to carry [illegible] the Millionaires will be [illegible] to [illegible] the season is over.

"As soon as we shake off [illegible] luck streak, I believe we will [illegible] first half out again [illegible]. But if we don't, I will [illegible] about the umpire being [illegible]. I will get a team that will play ball."

HANLON AND CORBETT WENT TWENTY ROUNDS TO A DRAW

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Eddie Hanlon fought Young Corbett to a standstill during the last few rounds of a 20-round contest tonight and was awarded a hard-earned decision by Referee Homan. The fight was an exciting one from start to finish. During the first part of the contest Hanlon had a slight advantage but no harm was done to either man until the eleventh round. Then Hanlon rushed Corbett to the ropes, but the Denver boy stalled him off and blocked a number of stomach punches. Corbett got to the center of the ring and in a mix-up landed left and right swings on Hanlon's jaw. The San Francisco boy went to his knees and took the count of nine. He came up fighting and in spite of Corbett's strenuous efforts to put him out he finished the round strong.

For the next four rounds Corbett went at his man and in the thirteenth had Hanlon very tired, but he could not land a knockout blow. Hanlon braced up in the fourteenth and seemed to have a small margin over Corbett. The fifteenth round was about even. Hanlon landed a left and right to the jaw, but they did no harm. The sixteenth was Corbett's by a large majority. He landed a series of right uppercuts to the face and Hanlon was very tired.

The seventeenth was Hanlon's. He uppercut Corbett in the face and stomach. Corbett was apparently tired and unable to hit back. The eighteenth was about even, although Corbett had a shade the better of it at the end. The nineteenth and twentieth were all Hanlon's. All during the nineteenth he stood up close to Corbett pounding away at the Denver boy's stomach. Corbett was tired and could not hit back. He made several wild swings but missed his man and did no harm. The round closed with the crowd yelling for Hanlon.

In the twentieth Hanlon came up strong and went right at his man. They stood breast to breast each with his head on the other's shoulder and slugged for all they were worth. Hanlon was the stronger and forced Corbett about the ring [illegible] a lively [illegible] Corbett against the ropes [illegible] Corbett [illegible] off the [illegible] back to the center of the ring but [illegible] Hanlon a [illegible]. tem out of Pittsburg were cited as a case in point.

The reported strained relations between the Harriman and Gould factions because of Mr. Gould's proposed extension of his system to the Pacific coast were cited in the same connection.

Hyde Interrupted.

Mr. Hyde's speech, which Mr. Harriman several times interrupted with replies to direct references of the speaker to him, precipitated an excited and bitter debate.

After the final adjournment Mr. Degaris said on leaving the board room: "It's all gone Hyde's way."

When Mr. Frick came out he said: "Our report has been practically rejected by the board and I have resigned in disgust. I shall have nothing further to do with Equitable affairs."

Mr. Hyde appeared to be satisfied and Mr. Tarbell seemed pleased. He said that after having been exonerated in the meeting of all blame by such a man as Mr. Schiff, he felt that he had reason to be proud. He added that he doubted the Frick report would ever be made public.

PITTSBURG THEATER DESTROYED BY FIRE

PITTSBURG, June 2.—Fire due "probably" to crossed wires broke out in the Avenue theater shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon and before it was subdued had completely destroyed the Avenue theater and partially wrecked the Grand opera house adjoining. Fortunately no public [illegible] [illegible] lives were lost. Loss $[illegible].

HOODOO BROKEN BY TOM BURNS

MILLIONAIRES WON SNAPPY GAME FROM PA ROURKE'S FAMILY—SCORE WAS 7 TO 3.

Tom Burns sat on the bench with the players yesterday afternoon for the first time this season and broke the hoodoo. When Minor went after a high fly in left field like an old woman would have done, Burns pulled him out and put Mitze in that garden and this was the only change made during the game. The final score was 7 to 3 in favor of the locals.

Carter scored the first run for the visitors in the first on his hit and Dolan's two-bagger. In the third Welch got to the first station on Bader's error, stole second and came home on Dolan's three-bagger. Martin scored the third and last run for Omaha in the fourth on his hit, another by Shipke and a sacrifice by Freese. After that Lindsey allowed but three hits, one of which was a three-bagger by Quick in the ninth which did no damage.

Blake scored one for the locals in the first on a pass, a stolen base, a wild pitch and Knabe's hit. Four more of the tail-enders crossed the pan in the sixth on six consecutive hits by Blake, Frisbie, Knabe, Mitze, Mott and Bader. Frisbie's and Mott's were two-baggers and Knabe's was good for three. Three more consecutive hits by Frisbie, Knabe and Mitze, with the aid of two field plays and an error brought Frisbie and Mitze home in the eighth.

Yesterday's game was snappy and well played throughout. Omaha finishes her series here tomorrow afternoon.

CHAFFEE TO WITNESS FRENCH MANEUVERS.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—It is announced at the war department that Lieutenant General Chaffee, chief of staff, and Brigadier Generals William S. The invitation to send United States army officers to that country was extended to Secretary Taft by the French ambassador.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

THREATENED TO KILL HIS FATHER

THE CHARGE AGAINST HANSOM HANDY, COLORED YOUTH RESIDING AT THE COAL MINES.

Hansom Handy, a colored boy a little over 17 years of age, was arrested at 10:40 o'clock last night by City Detectives Threlkeld and Rowan upon a charge of assault and threatening to kill his father.

The boy lived with his family at the [illegible] coal mine, north of the city, until about a month ago but it is said that he got into bad company and was led to be a bad man with a gun. He pulled a revolver on his father one night and threatened to kill him, it is charged, because the parent objected to the company he was keeping. To avoid arrest he skipped the country and went to Denver, returning [illegible] to secure his clothing. He visited the home when all were away, took his clothing and again went to Denver, returning to this city yesterday morning. The police learned of his return and last night arrested him at the residence of Mrs. Rowan on South Cascade street.

CITY HALL NOTES

Employes of the water department are flushing out the mains and clearing the drinking water of sand washed in by the recent floods.

The water department has completed the work of changing the water main which supplies the Seton hill section of the city. This four-inch main was washed out where it crossed Shook's run by the recent floods and to prevent a recurrence of this trouble the main has now been placed above the concrete conduit and buried in the roadway.

George Palmer, who was arrested early yesterday morning upon a charge of vagrancy and suspicion, is being held pending investigation by the detective department. Sam St. [illegible], charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $10 and costs and in default of the cash was committed to work on the [illegible] at the rate of $2 per day. Guy Burton was convicted of vagrancy and fined $25 and costs and committed. He will break rock for the city for fifteen days.

Jack Wilson furnished the corkscrew and William O'Brien the bottle which led to the arrest of both upon a charge of drinking upon a public street. They were gathered in by Officer Shepard on South Cascade avenue.

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. LOCAL HEALTH CONDITIONS.

NEITHER too frequent nor too loud acclaim can be given to the fact that persons residing in Colorado Springs have the advantages of one of the most healthful cities in the United States. Among the hundreds of reports of health conditions that come each month to the local health department there is none that makes so creditable a showing for the community where it is issued as that contained in the corresponding figures for Colorado Springs.

The month of May in Colorado Springs passed without the recording of a single case of contagious disease of any kind. This point alone, it is very likely, could be entered in the record of practically no other city of 30,000 inhabitants in the country. The death rate for the month, deducting the non-resident and imported tuberculosis cases, is but 6.79 per 1,000 per annum. This figure is in striking contrast to that of 19 per 1,000 per annum shown by the reports from average eastern cities, there being numerous reports from other points for April, the last month for which reports from other cities have been received, showing as high a death rate as the figure quoted.

Colorado Springs owes its exceptionally creditable health statistics to numerous causes. In the first place the city has been built in the spot most favored by nature, and man has done less here than in the average city of our population to offset the kindnesses that nature has bestowed. The residents of the city whose daily vocation subjects them to dangers that cause illness in densely populated cities are very few. Last but not least, the supervision over sanitary conditions and food products in Colorado Springs is so rigid and so constant that the per cent of cases of illness and death here, due to digestive or intestinal disorders—and this particularly in children—is kept down to the minimum.

Citizens of Colorado Springs have much to be proud of in the general health conditions of their city, and they should not cease letting the world know of it.

PROSPERITY IN PORTO RICO.

THE growth of Porto Rico's trade with this country since its products were placed on the free list is the best possible evidence of the wisdom of such an attitude toward our insular possessions. The Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor has recently issued a bulletin showing in detail the growth of commerce between the two countries since Porto Rico became an American possession, and the figures are interesting as well as instructive.

In the seven years since 1898 when the Treaty of Paris gave the island to the United States Porto Rico's exports to this country have increased from $2,382,170 to $12,963,483, a gain of 560 per cent. Her imports from the United States have grown from $1,404,004 to $11,934,978, a gain of 850 per cent. Our purchases from the island dependency have increased at a steady rate, the figures for the last three years being as follows: 1902, $9,634,176; 1903, $10,152,923; 1904, $12,963,483. The high water mark of American exports to that country was reached in 1902, when the total was $12,195,297.

Three-fourths of the total American imports from Porto Rico is sugar, the value of that commodity brought in last year being $9,491,757. Cigars and leaf tobacco worth about $2,000,000 were imported and the other principal items were fruit and coffee. Considering the superior quality of Porto Rican coffee it might be supposed that this article would figure extensively in the import list, but such is not the case, the amount last year being only $292,000. But the insular government is arranging to establish a coffee agency in New York with the object of acquainting the great American race of coffee drinkers with the merits of the Porto Rican berry.

Altogether the condition of Porto Rico is highly prosperous. The internal development of the island is advancing at a rapid pace; roads are being built, the public school system established immediately after the American occupation is proving thoroughly successful, the natives are being encouraged in habits of thrift and industry and their condition is being bettered in every way possible. Seven years of American rule has done more for the island than three centuries of Spanish domination. It is a striking illustration of the success of American methods of colonial government when unhampered by warfare, and it is gratifying to know that this success is being duplicated in the Philippines since the suppression of the insurrection.

TONE OF THE RUSSIAN PRESS.

THE demand of the Russian press for the convocation of a national assembly to determine the question of peace or war grows more insistent each day, as the full realization of the recent catastrophe dawns upon the stricken land. Now that the censorship has been removed the people are beginning to learn what the rest of the world learned last Sunday and Monday; namely, that the last vestige of Russia's naval strength has vanished, under circumstances which reflect only disgrace upon Russian honor.

The slow but steady growth of liberal ideas is shown by the character of the editorials now appearing in the leading papers of St. Petersburg, Moscow and the other [illegible]. The [illegible] assailed with a [illegible] that would [illegible] to the worst of [illegible] [illegible] appeared in the Slovo, a popular St. Petersburg [illegible]:

"[illegible] blindfolded for [illegible] [illegible] the bureau[illegible]cracy has had its say and has crowned its work of national shame and humiliation. Let it now listen to what those who have suffered in silence and who have supported it in luxury have to say. From this moment a convocation of the people has become as necessary as the air we breathe. If the bureaucracy this time stands between the Emperor and the people let it beware. Let it remember the lessons of Russian history—the history of the zemsky sobor of 1645. The Japanese are not fighting the Russian people, but the bureaucracy, which has repressed with energy the talent of the nation for the sake of sycophants and time-serving courtiers. [illegible] at this late hour is the consequence, that [illegible] not the people but the government that has suffered defeat."

Russ.

To appreciate the real significance of such radical utterances one must understand something of the conditions of journalism in Russia. Every paper is under strict governmental supervision, and neither news matter nor editorials can be published until they have been approved by the censor. The first copy of each edition is sent to that official and no more copies can be printed until it is returned with his O. K. Anything to which he objects must be taken from the forms and either altered to comply with his requirements or cut out entirely. Of course the unwinding of all this red tape requires a great deal of time, but time is no object to a Russian newspaper.

The most serious result of such a system is the complete stifling of individual thought. The opinions of the press are those of the bureaucracy, otherwise they do not get into print. In the present crisis it is evident that the government has realized the necessity of modifying the censorship. It has learned the temper of the thinking classes and has decided that it is no longer advisable to attempt to stem the tide of public opinion. The people are constantly growing more dissatisfied and the latest reverse has worked them up to a pitch of indignation where substantial concessions must be granted forthwith. It would not be surprising to learn that the Czar has decided to grant the demand for a popular assembly, even though it would be a complete reversal of bureaucratic precedents.

Most of the men on Rojestvensky's ships are said to have been shanghaied from the gutters of Moscow and St. Petersburg, or drafted from Siberian farms, and very few of them ever saw a warship before. This goes a long way toward explaining why.

The latest South American revolution is reported from Argentina. The only uncertainty about the appearance of the regular monthly South American revolution is as to the exact spot where it will break loose.

OPPORTUNITY FOR WIRELESS.

It is claimed that Captain Amundsen has reached the north pole. If he has it would be a good plan to rig up a wireless telegraph system. But seriously, the wireless system may indeed be a means of assisting those who make these foolhardy trips to the north. It would be an easy matter to rig up wires on the masts of the ships and send messages from any point telling where the navigators are and in what condition, whether getting along well or suffering for the want of anything. Relief, if necessary, could then be sent immediately and to the point needed, without necessitating hunting the location of the men.—Boulder Herald.

BACKWARD SEASON IN SAN JUAN.

The present spring, especially in this section of the great San Juan, is the most backward of any recorded for years. In this county there never was so much new work mapped out nor so many new enterprises projected as there are at the present time in local mining circles. Then, too, there are many mining properties that would at this time be operating full swing were it not for the congested condition of the mountain trails which are so blockaded with snow that the transportation of material and supplies to these mines just now is impossible of accomplishment. The season is at the least a month late, and the consequent loss to the mining industry of the county will reach far up into the thousands of dollars.—Silverton Standard.

A ROOSEVELT CONTEST.

The management of the state fair at Pueblo is arranging for a most unique feature, which will be known as a "Roosevelt Contest," in which a prize will be offered for the largest family in the state and three generations or more—grandparents, their children and grandchildren—will be allowed to compete. One condition is that the entire family must be in attendance at the fair and be residents of Colorado. It is planned to award the prize on the last day of the fair. A photograph will be taken of the winning family to be sent to President Roosevelt. We are pretty sure our friend Deacon Williams, of this city, can secure the prize if he chooses to enter the contest. He now boasts of 12 children, 45 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.—Golden Transcript.

The Morgue for Deep Sea Ships

The Terrible Menace of the Floating Derelicts Ambushed in the Ocean Lanes of the Swift Liners. It Is a Miracle That Disaster Has Not Been Greater. The Unexplainable Long Life of Some of the Abandoned Ones.

"I drift to the north, I drift to the east,
I drift to the south and west;
From pole to pole I churn and rot,
But there comes to me peace nor rest."

I[illegible] terrors for sailor folk who traffic across the stretches of the North Atlantic as does that silent, treacherous enemy—the derelict. In these days of great trade on the seas, [illegible] within that sphere marked by the rocks of Nova Scotia on the north, the sandy, coral shores of the Bahamas on the south, the American coast on the west and the meridian of 40 degrees west longitude to the eastward, there is found a morgue of ships. There every winter has seen twoscore and more vessels to their doom, but many which should be in their graves at the bottom of the sea are long on the surface, dismasted, broken hulks, some submerged save for the stump of a stern, others just awash, waiting for the time to come when some unfortunate craft shall blunder into their sodden bodies and go down with them as company.

There is no peril of the sea more to be dreaded than the hulk of an abandoned vessel in this condition. Ambushed in the lanes of the great liners are numbers of these menacing vessels, and that they have not rammed or maimed any of the big passenger ships seems a miracle.

The Sailor's Dread.

Few passengers on the liners ever think of the things which come on nights and thick days to the officer on the bridge whose haunting fear conjures destruction by a dead, wandering ship in the black dip of every sea and the pointed whitecap of each crest. It is his quick brain and quicker voice which must cope with these shapes as they loom up and then fade again in the motion of the water which makes them. How often in a watch these shapes come, only the man on the bridge and the sailor in the crowsnest know, and they hope ever to feel that moment when one of the phantoms rises threateningly in their path—a reality.

Eternity then ticks off the seconds. There is a hail from the crowsnest, a darting glance ahead, a word to the man at the wheel, and the brutish bulk of the steamship swerves to port or starboard sharply as she feels the tugging of her bit. For an instant overside there is a gleam of copper as the derelict rolls her belly uppermost, or the dim outline of the overwater shape of a hull, a glimpse of a white rail, a shattered mast, and then—nothing. The derelict is waiting again.

Out of these experiences come the reports one sees in the shipping news, which are written after this fashion:

"Lat. 46.23 N., long. 46.29 W., passed close to the hull of a wooden, copper-sheathed bark or brig, lying on port side deep, and with starboard side awash. Fore and main masts were gone ten or fifteen feet above deck."

And if one would hold closer to the laconic record of the seas, maybe his eye will mark a report like this:

"Lat. 40.10 N., long. 73.52 W., struck a submerged wreck. Report by Second Officer Anderson."

Last year 141 derelicts were reported in the North Atlantic from time to time. This past winter alone has claimed a harvest of 48, with the list growing daily. The winter of 1903-04 saw 53, and the full year of 1903 250.

Need of a Destroyer.

In view of these conditions every year congress during its recent session had a bill before it for the construction of a vessel specially designed for wrecking (derelict-destroying) duty. It failed of passage, and the task of clearing the highways of the Atlantic of obstructions threatening its travelers has fallen again to the navy department, which is fitting out the collier Lebanon for the purpose. This vessel will go forth this month with naval gunners, torpedoes and guncotton and fire and sink every derelict with which she meets.

There should be a vessel constructed for this important service, to be ready at all times to go out upon the receipt of authentic reports of derelicts and wrecks in the paths of navigation, and destroy them. The navy department has other uses for the war vessels of this country, although it has ever been ready to respond to emergencies such as now exist and to the petitions of shipping interests.

In the past ten years 2,388 derelicts and wrecks have been reported from the North Atlantic. From 1887 to 1893 1,628 unidentified abandoned vessels and 452 identified were reported to the United States hydrographic office. These reports come from between 3,000 [illegible] masters and officers of ships of all nations, who are enlisted loyally in the service of the hydrographic office. The government pays these men of the sea in free weekly printed records and monthly pilot charts, which tell in graphic symbols the condition of the ways they follow, where derelicts were last seen and where they will probably be met again, what winds or gales may be expected and meteorological data of the highest scientific value.

The Life of a Derelict.

It has been estimated that the average time a derelict remains afloat is thirty days, yet the perversity of the elements keeps some on the surface more than a year. The most notable instance of long survival is in the record of the American three-masted schooner Fannie E. Wolston, which was abandoned October 15, 1891. She was last reported afloat on February 21, 1894, [illegible]. Next comes the [illegible] [illegible] seen a [illegible]. The bark Vincenzo Perotta, abandoned in 1887, drifted for 536 days and covered [illegible] of ocean before she finally [illegible] Wyoming [illegible]! There was the schooner Ethel M. Davis, which drifted for 354 days; the schooner David W. Hunt 341 days; the bark Telemach 331 days; the schooner James B. Drury, 267 days; the bark Navarch 358 days; the schooner May Gibbon 343 days; the bark Ocean, 254 days; the schooner [illegible], 208 days; the schooner Robert P. Chandler, 217 days; the schooner Unexpected, 200 days; the schooner Caleb S. Ridgeway, 295 days; the schooner Agnes Manning, 250 days; besides score on score of vessels upward of a hundred days.

The Fannie E. Wolston was sighted thirty-four times during her wanderings; the bark Carrie Dove, twenty-five times; the Wyer G. Sargent, thirty-two times; the David W. Hunt, forty-one times, and the Vincenzo Perotta, twenty-seven times. How long they drifted on after they were last seen, only the deep sea knows.

Damage from Collisions.

Man will never be able to record all of the total collisions which vessels have had with derelicts in the North Atlantic. The list the United States hydrographic office has of total losses by collisions, of great damage and of slight damage done by them, is appalling, even in its admitted incompleteness. It includes every kind of commercial craft, and one war vessel, the Spanish gunboat Paz, which struck a derelict off Tarifa and sank in a few minutes. The annual average number of collisions is approximated at five. Sailor men can explain the disappearance of the fine new White Star freighter Naronic, able as steel and the hands of shipbuilders could make her, in no other way than by a collision with a derelict.

Most of the derelicts and wrecks in the North Atlantic are wooden vessels. Seldom does an iron or steel craft last many hours after abandonment, though there are instances on record of long drifts of vessels built of these materials. There was the old iron bark Annie Iredale, of Liverpool, which meandered over the Pacific for five or six months with a cargo of blazing Newcastle coal. One day she drifted by the city of Papeete, in Tahiti, and a poor devil of an American went out in a canoe and claimed her. There was just a glow left in the cargo. The bark's finder patched her up, induced a handful of beachcombers and natives to help him work her to San Francisco, and there he fitted her with new decks and new spars, and laid the foundation of a fortune with the earnings of her first voyage. I believe she is still trading in the Pacific under the name of Annie Johnson.

There have been numerous cases where derelicts have proved great prizes to men from vessels falling in with them and taking a chance of getting them to a port. Only a few years ago the British ship Senator found the Norwegian ship Superb in the South Atlantic dismasted and abandoned. The Senator's mate and four men went aboard the Superb, got a jury rig on her, and worked the vessel successfully to Gibraltar, whence she was towed to England. Every little while a boat [illegible] along this coast by a steamer getting a line on a derelict with a good cargo and running her into a handy harbor.

Boarding a Derelict.

I shall never forget one dark January afternoon in the North Atlantic about two hundred miles east-by-south of Cape Hatteras, coming upon a derelict and boarding her. The sky was overcast [illegible] of a dirty, threatening gray. The sea was heaving [illegible] long ground swell. Four hours after [illegible] the shattered end of a bowsprit [illegible] over the edge of water and [illegible] to the eastward and hauling our [illegible] the belief that there might be some [illegible] aboard to be rescued, a light breeze brought us within an eighth of a mile to leeward of the dead ship, where we backed our main topsails.

The glasses [illegible] name of Levanter on her bows, and from Lloyds' Register we soon learned that she was [illegible]. The fore and main masts were splintered stumps [illegible] three feet high, and the mizzen mast was snapped off flush with the top of the house. She was deep to her [illegible], and the water frothed [illegible] from her sides as the swell [illegible] the carcass up and down. Now and then the deck would roll toward us, and we could see it showed [illegible], the hatches gone, and the deck [illegible] broken out.

[illegible] back to hails. [illegible] we boarded the Levanter, not knowing what her cabin might reveal. A fiendish [illegible] broke on our ears as we [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] worked the vessel from side to side, and then fore and aft, the lumber being washed against the skin of the hull with a heavy grumble, while all the loosened joints of the hardwood furnishings of the cabin, chafing together, screamed and moaned and cried [illegible] endowed with voice.

Everywhere was the dank, sour odor of the sea, [illegible] the pitch from the [illegible] decks that had [illegible] service. The ship's black cat lay dead in a corner, where it had been pinned by an overturned and broken bench.

I hurried to get out on deck, and as I went picked up a brass door hinge of old-fashioned design, which I thought of keeping as a memento, but as we pulled away from the derelict I dropped the piece of metal overboard. Men do not want memory tokens of that kind.

An hour later the dead craft was behind the horizon. If human eyes ever saw the Levanter afterward, they never reported her.—Correspondence New York Evening Post.

A MOUNTAIN TRAGEDY.

The following vivid description of a duel to the death between a magnificent elk and a mountain lion is from a story by G. D. Warren in the May Recreation:

The lion quickly moved to the side of the fleeing quarry, and, taking him on the shoulder and breast with his forepaws, imbedded his terrible teeth in the throat of the elk. The elk gave a stifled cry of pain and rage as he attempted to trample the enemy down. They were now coming uncomfortably close. The elk had swayed in his course and staggered from the path. With one mighty effort he tried to dislodge the lion by swinging his head up and down and striking with his fore feet, but his fate was sealed. As well might a rabbit expect to escape the eagle when once in its talons, as this monster elk to defeat his terrible foe. The great beast staggered laterally and fell, his shoulders bearing down the lion's haunches and hind legs, causing it to relax his death grip to pull itself from under the elk, which made a [illegible] effort and regained his feet. Once more the lion succeeded in fastening his teeth in the flesh of the elk, this time on the top of the neck, and the elk [illegible] a last feeble [illegible] forward and fell within ten feet of [illegible].

The elk seemed to fall forward more from pain than from weight of the foe, whereupon the lion doubled itself up, resting both fore and hind feet on the elk's neck on either side of the lion's mouth. Then the hind feet were pressed against the neck, embedding the claws deep in the elk's flesh, and with a [illegible] the great cat not only [illegible] back [illegible], but literally cut it half [illegible]. The large white sinew of the neck was severed by the lion's teeth [illegible] pulled loose from the head. The [illegible] was then rolled over on its side, and the lion began to lap the blood as it spurted from the great gap at the top of the throat.

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buesing, 701 West Third St., Davenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could not give me more than temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty-cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and if I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering." Verse of a Day

By Henry Christeen Warnack.

THE SKINNER.

A song for the skinner
The earth-stained sinner
Who [illegible] his slavish works;
[illegible] dry brown heeler
[illegible] wheeler
Husky toil-steeped slave who never can shirk.

Cross the ways he must
Through blinding dust,
Up [illegible] grades rough hewn and steep;
With [illegible]
And [illegible] astrain
At each [illegible] he plunges deep.

He swears [illegible]
[illegible] wings,
Nor cares for heat nor cares for cold;
Close to the earth
With heart of mirth
He toils until the day is old.

He does not weep
When he should sleep
Because of wealth he holds no share;
He [illegible]
[illegible] earth [illegible]
No more [illegible] with a care.

One day [illegible]
No skinner [illegible]
Nor walks of [illegible] grades white
[illegible]
[illegible] that line
As [illegible]
The [illegible] sleep [illegible] a dirt-brown grave.

There no more will he [illegible]
No more will he care
Nor ever more rise at the dawn's piercing
[illegible];
[illegible] sleep he shall sleep,
[illegible] without worry,
While the world sings on with the right-
[illegible] song.

WHO SEES AND HEARS.

[illegible] golden gleam
[illegible] who sees;
There's a smile in every flower's face,
[illegible] and smiles that interlace,
Blessed is he who hears its grace
And blessed is he who sees.

There's a tender dream
[illegible]
For him who hears;
For the note of every bird on wing
Holds a song as glad as the blossoming
Of a thousand radiant flowers of spring,
And blessed is he who hears.

There's a radiant dream
In the moon's soft beam
For him who sees;
There's a dream of spring in the drifting snows,
The dream that lives in the heart of the rose;
Thrice blessed is he who the rose dream knows,
And blessed is he who sees.

There's a music dream
In each purling stream
For him who hears;
A dream and a song of sunny hills,
Of skies that are blue and meadow rills;
Blessed is he whom their murmur thrills,
And blessed is he who hears.

COUNTRY COUSIN IN TOWN.

Remember Sammy Small? He got in bad, very bad, last week. His cousin came from the country to visit Sammy. His cousin had some fine presents for Sammy, but Sammy didn't know it, neither did he know his cousin. Sammy got all the small boys in the neighborhood to do stunts to Cousin [illegible]. Did Sammy get the presents? Not quite. But he got two mighty good lickings. Take a look at the pictures [illegible] about it in next week's funny [illegible].

FOUND MANGLED BODY ON TRACK

RAY GRIGGS, OF DES MOINES, IA., KILLED BY ROCK ISLAND TRAIN 125 MILES EAST OF HERE.

The mangled remains of Ray Griggs, a young man residing at Des Moines, Ia., were found on the Rock Island tracks 125 miles east of this city in Kit Carson county yesterday morning by trackwalkers. The dead man's identity was learned by a letter found in a pocket from his father, Frank Griggs of Des Moines. The coroner of Kit Carson county held an inquest but the jury was unable to determine which of two passenger trains had killed him. The father was telegraphed and he wired the firm of Fairley Bros. & Law of this city to prepare the remains for burial and send them to Des Moines.

RANDOLPH BEST DRILLED PRIVATE

WON GOLD MEDAL YESTERDAY AT FINAL PRIZE DRILL—NORMAN SLOANE WAS SECOND.

Private Jay Randolph, Company B, High school cadets, received the gold medal offered by the battalion officers to the best drilled private, yesterday afternoon at the close of the last individual prize drill. Norman Sloane, Company A, was second.

In yesterday afternoon's drill Roby Seibird, Company A, received the award from the judges, Captain Curtis, G. A. R., Harry McMillan and Fred Gustin. Both of Company B have each won a former drill and Private Randolph has won twice, thus earning the medal. Cadets Seibird and Smith were in the final squad of Company A and Cadets W. G. Hoagland and Harold Boynton were in the final squad of Company B.

Jay Randolph comes from a soldierly family, several members of whom have won honors in the High school cadet battalion. A brother of his was major of the battalion in 1901-2 and another brother, Ward, is the present captain of Company B which won the company drill this year.

The cadet battalion yesterday decided to attend the baccalaureate service at the First Baptist church next Sunday evening in a body.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

A tennis tournament and a handball tourney will be begun at the Y. M. C. A. next week. Both will be conducted out-of-doors.

The new tennis courts back of the First Presbyterian church have been put into excellent order and the tournament games will be played there. Competitors will be divided into three classes, experienced players being divided into classes "A" and "B" and new players who wish to learn the game will be placed in class "C."

The handball tourney will be conducted on the new athletic grounds north of the association building.

SPRINGS YOUTH ON THE HIGH ROAD TO SUCCESS

Word has been received in this city that B. C. Kern, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kern, 518 West Platte avenue, is one of the 24 applicants who have successfully passed the medical examinations for positions as internes at the city hospital of St. Louis. He will be assigned to a position in that hospital. Mr. Kern graduated from the Colorado Springs High school with the class of 1901, and during his school career was one of the most popular men in the school. He was president of his class during the senior year. Since his graduation he has been attending Washington college.

THE MAY WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

INFORMATION BUREAUS FOR TOURISTS AT EVERY DEPOT

Hotel Men's Association Take Important Steps for Convenience of Visitors---Day of Recreation Spent at Manitou Closing With Banquet.

Information bureaus for all Colorado depots was the object which the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association has decided to endeavor to obtain. The appointment of a committee to confer with the Union depot company of Denver, the Western Passenger association and the various passenger agents of Colorado roads was the most important action taken by the association in the business session of the association held yesterday at Manitou, the occasion being that of the association's semi-annual meeting.

[illegible] Williams, assistant secretary of the Colorado Realty association, accompanied the Denver delegation and took up with the association the question of support for the realty association's bureau of publicity opened at Portland June 1 by John T. Burke, secretary of the association, and [illegible] of the Portland exposition, a board of directors. This bureau expects to [illegible] exposition visitors to Colorado and to [illegible] national conventions for this state next year.

Arriving in this city at [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning in a special Denver & Rio Grande train, the Denver delegation was joined by the Colorado Springs hotel men and their car was [illegible] taken to Manitou. From there the [illegible] delegation was taken to the Cave of the Winds and to Williams canon. Returning, the hotel men had luncheon at the Cliff House and in the afternoon were the guests of the [illegible] road's management on a trip up Pikes Peak. They returned about 5:30 o'clock and went into business session. At 7:30 o'clock they sat down to a royal banquet at the Cliff House. The spread was bountiful and many were the [illegible]. Manager [illegible] Heyden, of the Brown Palace of Denver, was toastmaster. Some of those making responses were: H. H. [illegible] of the St. James, Denver; C. H. Morse, of the Oxford, Denver; J. W. Kelly, general passenger agent of the Moffat road; John S. Hambaugh and H. Jerome Toy, Colorado Springs; Judge C. J. Gavin, of Raton, and others.

Guests present other than those from this city were: [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. Laura [illegible], [illegible] Wells, [illegible], Miss Virginia [illegible], [illegible], H. H. Hake, A. S. Austin, A. S. [illegible], J. W. Kelly, [illegible], Mr. W. F. Sperry, [illegible], Wallace Maher, Mr. J. E. Woods, [illegible], Denver; E. R. Mathias and Thomas Petty, McKeesport, Pa.; H. G. [illegible], [illegible]; C. J. Gavin, Raton, N. M.; Charles W. Miller, Rocky Ford.

Messrs. Mathias and Petty [illegible] to look out for [illegible] from McKeesport [illegible] attending the national convention at Denver in August, will spend several days in this city and vicinity.

TREE PREVENTED FALL TO DEATH

FLORIDA YOUNG WOMAN FAINTED AND TUMBLED DOWN MOUNTAIN SIDE—PICKED UP UNCONSCIOUS.

While gathering wild flowers in South Cheyenne canon last Tuesday afternoon Miss Kathleen Chambers, a visitor in the city from St. Augustine, Fla., met with a bad accident and narrowly escaped death. The young woman had reached a steep place on the mountain side when she fainted from the exertion and fell a distance of about 20 feet. She struck against a tree which broke her fall and prevented her from being dashed on the rocks below. She was badly bruised and unconscious when friends reached her. Miss Chambers was brought to this city in a carriage and a physician summoned to attend her, but she is still confined to the house as a result of her injuries. Her father, W. H. Chambers, is on his way to this city to join his family at 428 North Nevada.

Whooping Cough.

The quick relief afforded by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in cases of whooping cough, makes it a favorite with the mothers of small children. It liquifies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, keeps the cough loose and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough and always with perfect success. There is no danger whatever from the disease when it is freely given. It contains nothing injurious and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

Views. Views. Views...

The ONLY hand colored views in the Rockies are made by the W. E. Hook View Co.

Others selling views will tell you they have photographs in natural colors—no such thing. they are photo chromos—just chromos—that's all. They have a patch of green, a patch of red, a patch of yellow and a patch of blue—sometimes the blue overruns and will give you a patch of blue trees. They have none of the beautiful blending of color art you will find in our Hand Color work.

If you want to see perfection in art photographic views—step into the hallway of MacRae restaurant or the Antlers office. You will see beautiful South Cheyenne canon in color photography as the W. E. Insanity, Death or Health?

Mrs. Harriet Best

[illegible] St. Louis, Mo., March [illegible] 1905.

I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness for eighteen months [illegible] get a proper night's rest and [illegible] I was easily irritated and hysterical at [illegible] Wine of Cardui gave me great relief. Within a week after I began using it I had my first real good night's sleep that I had had for months. My appetite was soon restored, my general system toned up and nervousness became a thing of the past.

I am so pleased to acknowledge the great curative merit of your health giving medicine and gladly endorse it.

WINE OF CARDUI

We want to call your attention to the complete and immediate relief Mrs. Best secured by taking Wine of Cardui. Within a week after she began taking Wine of Cardui Mrs. Best had her first good night's rest for eighteen months. Her restlessness was caused by nervousness and Wine of Cardui [illegible] menstrual regulator has no superior in the world as a medicine to soothe a woman's nerves. Nervousness and hysteria are warnings of the approach of insanity and if relief is not secured the end can only be the asylum or the grave. With such an outlook as this before her, no suffering woman can reasonably refuse to give Wine of Cardui a trial. It brings [illegible] thousands of women have sought for in vain. Will you secure a [illegible] of Wine of Cardui today and start treatment?

AMUSEMENTS

THE RETURN OF THE MARIE FOUNTAIN CO. EASTERN

The Marie Fountain company, Eastern, will be an early attraction at the Opera House, the company opening a two weeks engagement starting next Tuesday matinee, June 6.

A repertoire of plays new to this city will be given, included among which are some of the latest and best dramatic successes.

A number of high class vaudeville acts have been specially secured for this engagement, thereby lending an additional feature to the productions.

The repertoire for the first week of the engagement includes "The Golden Giant Mine," "The Young Scout" and "Uncle Josh Whitcomb." The first named will be given Tuesday matinee and [illegible]. "The Young Scout" will be presented Wednesday night, Thursday matinee and Thursday night, while Friday night, Saturday matinee and night will be devoted to the presentation of "Uncle Josh Whitcomb."

EMPIRE THEATER.

Did you ever notice how the Empire bill is grow[ing] on one; how, for example, the attendance keeps up throughout the week? The reason is plain when you stop to consider the kind of attractions this popular playhouse is providing for its patrons. Almost every week there is a better bill offered than the week before.

Last night the audience were both [illegible] and appreciative. Every act was applauded. Starting out with the Frees Sisters, the opening number of the program, and ending with the moving pictures, the performers showed their delight by generous applause.

[illegible] the hard-[illegible] [illegible] great applause. He [illegible] the audience with his [illegible] work and [illegible] took four bows from the stage. [illegible]

[illegible]

The illustrated songs by Otto Isaacson this week [illegible] the standard of [illegible] has not [illegible] ballads, but every now and then gives his audience something classic. And he does it in a way that at once proclaims him an artist of no mean power.

McNamee, the clay modeler, [illegible] the novelty act this week. His work is very clever and the audiences have shown much interest in it.

The moving pictures, "A Five-cent Trolley Ride" and "Sandy McGregor's Adventures," are very laughable and bring the bill to a close in a happy manner.

If you have not seen the bill at the Empire this week, don't fail to do so today.

DANIEL FRAWLEY IN "RANSON'S FOLLY"

[illegible] Daniel Frawley, who has just completed a trip around the world at the head of a company of American players, [illegible] Richard Harding Davis' "Ranson's Folly" [illegible] interesting incident.

"In Rhodesia I gave a performance of Secret Service before the three principal chiefs of the Bula tribe. This performance was given on the lawn in front of the palace and naturally [illegible] of the natives of the [illegible] witnessed the interpretation of the play. The head priest was very much impressed by the Sherlock Holmes story, and after the performance [illegible] White Wings and [illegible]. [illegible] White Wings is supposed to be the greatest [illegible] in the country, and I am told that it is not at all difficult for him to make [illegible] [illegible] at the station I was given a feast by several of the chiefs of the Bula tribe."
